OUR STORY

The Association for a More Just Society (ASJ) is a Honduran civil society organization created in 1998 with the mission of working for a society where justice prevails, focusing on making the government system work and be fair especially for the most vulnerable. They have witnessed that the efforts made so far by the NGOs and the government at the community level to try to move forward and put aside the underdevelopment in which we find ourselves are not enough. Partly because many times community efforts become insufficient due to being affected by unscrupulous policies, legislation, companies or people, who promote the interests of a few while affecting the vast majority.

Health is an inalienable right, essential for human development

A quality education is the fundamental basis for improving people's lives

Security is a human right and a non-delegable responsibility of the state.

ASJ ensures governance and transparency in the country.

OUR VISION

To be a group of brave Christians that fights so that Hondurans in vulnerable conditions are fulfilled the right to access and receive effective state services.

OUR MISSION

Promote justice and peace in alliance with civil society, generating structural changes in the security, health and education sectors to achieve a more just society in favor of the most vulnerable.

PLEASE PRAY FOR:

- The continued hard work and persistence to seek justice for the most vulnerable.
- Those of us to speak truth even when it is hard, scary, and uncomfortable knowing there are consequences.
- Us to strengthen our own understanding and to deepen our community.
- Adaptability and innovativeness in the way we approach problems.
